Who's Who in IAPSC

Ricardo Segovia, M.A., M.Sc. became a member of IAPSC in May 2013. He is a security consultant and threat analyst with extensive experience in law enforcement and international affairs.

Ricardo began his career in 1999 as a junior law enforcement officer in Chile serving, between others, as a commissioned officer in the Presidential Security Dept. His professional experience also includes internships at the Bureau of International Security and Nonproliferation of the U.S. Dept. of State; Secretariat for Multidimensional Security of the Organization of American States; and Southern Pulse Networked Intelligence. Most recently, Ricardo provided services to a private security and threat assessment firm in the U.S.

Ricardo Segovia

In 2012, Ricardo completed his second master's degree in Nonproliferation and Terrorism Studies from the Monterey Institute of International Studies. He has also completed graduate-level security studies at Stanford University and the Naval Postgraduate School where he specialized in the use of Organizational Risk Analyzer (ORA) software.

Ricardo provides risk and security analysis consulting for private organizations and individuals. His solutions and recommendations help develop, prototype, and deploy comprehensive and cost-effective security strategies. Ricardo is based in Menlo Park, CA.

Brent A. Barker joined IAPSC in May 2013. He is a Global Travel Security Consultant providing small/medium size organizations and individuals with international travel safety and security training, threat assessment and assistance.

Brent Barker

For 20 years, Barker was a Special Agent with the U.S. Dept. of State Diplomatic Security Service. He served overseas at U.S. consulates/embassies and multiple mobile security and protective details throughout the world. Upon retirement from the Federal Government (20 Dept. of State and 10 U.S. Army), he established the international travel security program for the University of WA in Seattle.

Barker Global Security helps organizations keep employees/volunteers safe while minimizing disruption of operations, legal liability, negative publicity; and unexpected expenses associated with travel emergencies. His target market includes NGO's, universities, alumni and religious groups, and businesses which lack global security expertise. He provides direct services and also work as a subcontractor to other security firms and consultants.
