QUALIFICATIONS FOR MEMBERSHIP

IAPSC membership is open to full- and part-time security consultants who meet qualifications that include:

Education: Each candidate for membership shall submit documentation of an earned baccalaureate or higher degree from an accredited college or university. Eight years of direct, broad security experience may be accepted by the Membership Committee as equivalent.

• Certifications which may also be accepted by the Membership Committee in place of the educational qualifications (above) are:

- Certified Protection Professional
- Certified Security Consultant
- Certified Protection Professional
- Physical Security Professional
- Certified Information Security Systems Professional
- Other certifications may also be accepted at the discretion of the Membership Committee.

Experience: At least five years of broad security experience in paid positions, demonstrating increasing responsibilities, with at least three years at management for higher levels. Time submitted in fulfillment of this requirement may not be used to substitute for the educational requirement (above).

- ° Consideration will also be given to those practitioners/applicants whose sole expertise has been in the development of specialized technological aspects of architectural or engineering security design, access control, or specialized electronic or computer security application, not necessarily in management positions, but who otherwise meet the five-year criteria. In no case will the five-year security experience requirement be waived.
- ° In the event an applicant was hired directly into a top security management position of an enterprise or institution, and served at least five years as such, the requirement of this section is considered fulfilled, without the necessity of demonstrating increasing responsibilities.
- ° The same principle shall apply in considering the application of an otherwise qualified Security Consultant, who in some rare instance, has no prior qualifying experience, but who has fulfilled the criteria of an independent Security Consultant, as defined elsewhere in the By-laws, for five or more years, prior to the date of application.

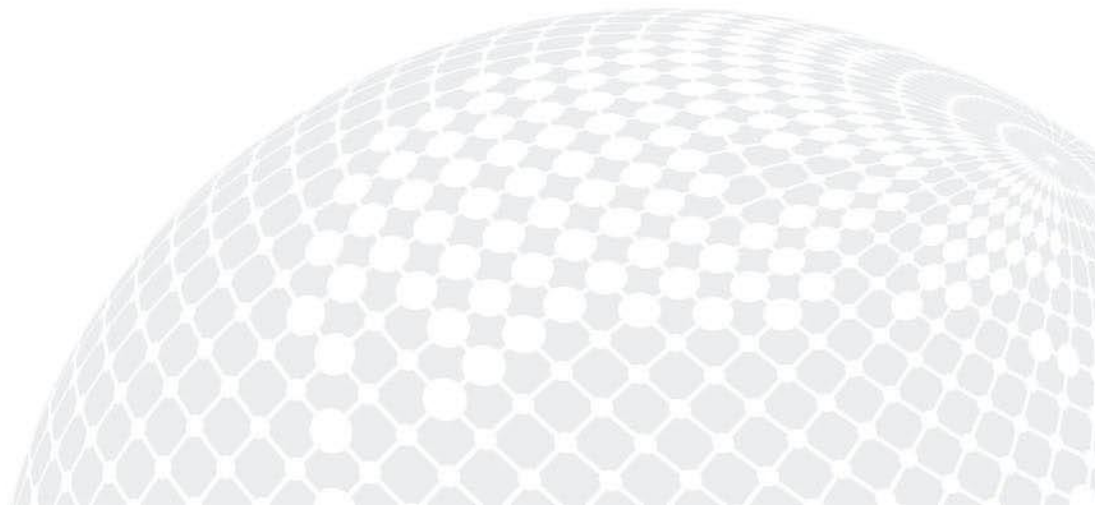

MEMBERSHIP REQUIREMENTS

Listed below are additional Membership Requirements for Active and Associate Member Classifications:

- All members shall be individuals, not companies or firms, who engage full or part-time in the activity of management consulting specializing in security, loss prevention or security training, security equipment system technical design, evaluation and specification, and/or advise or assist the court and its officers on security matters as a Forensic Consultant. They shall be independent and non-product affiliated.
- Security Consultants, who are members of this Association, shall not be known as investigators and will not advertise themselves as such. They will not engage in any of the following activities: divorce, domestic investigations, surveillance, skip tracing, repossession of property, or stand alone civil or criminal record checks. They will not provide undercover or bodyguard personnel.
- Nothing contained herein prohibits any member from complying with any law or regulation, by any governmental or regulatory body, which requires that Security consultants be licensed as Investigators or any other related license.
- Security Consultants may "investigate" within broad parameters of the definition of the word, in order to determine the needs of their client. Security Consultants, who are members of this Association, investigate only for the purpose of developing information to complete their surveys, design, or testimony, contracting out traditional investigative work to private investigators or similar practitioners. It is understood that a greater level of investigation may be required of those who specialize in fields of financial fraud, art theft, corporate internal theft and fraud, securities fraud, terrorism-extortion, or similar environments, requiring specialized knowledge and experience outside the scope of the routine private investigator.
- For purposes of membership in the Association, Security Consultants may not engage in detection of deception by providing polygraph services, pencil and paper honesty testing, voice stress analysis, handwriting or grapho-analysis, or by any other means. If a client requests these types of services, they are to be contracted out to qualified vendors.

- Members may not sell security equipment or provide any services such as, but not limited to sales and/or installation of: alarms systems, access controls, closed circuit television systems, contract guards, undercover agents, bodyguards, or strike forces. Members may not have any form of affiliation with a product or service that could be construed as a possible conflict of interest.
- Members may sell books, manuals, computer programs, programs, videotapes or similar training materials that they have authored or inventions they have designed.
- Any person who has been convicted of any felony, or who has been convicted of any crime involving moral turpitude, or who has engaged in any act which constitutes moral turpitude, shall not be admitted to membership or continue as a member.
- Any person who pays or accepts a fee, a commission, or other valuable consideration from an individual or organization whose equipment, supplies, or services that person might recommend in the course of his or her services to a client shall not be admitted or continue as a member.

The applicant may be asked to provide additional information. Final determination of eligibility will be made by the Membership Committee based on the information furnished, any oral interviews, and information received through the background check.
